

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.

After years of persistent agitation by strong-minded women and well-watched men, the reform of Female Suffrage seems to be no nearer a successful issue than at first. Its champions are discouraged and disheartened, and may as well abandon the whole subject. They utterly failed in the Convention at Albany, to excite any very serious consideration of the subject by the delegates. The Michigan Convention, after voting 29 to 25 in Committee, some time since, to adopt Female Suffrage, afterwards rejected the proposition by a very large vote, and refused even to submit the question to the people as a separate proposition. And so it has been wherever the question has been brought up before legislative bodies. There were many causes for its failure and few for its success. The people have never regarded the movement in a serious light, and therefore could not be expected to reason on the subject; and if they had we believe that a majority would not have favored it. Its agitators have not been of the right stamp to control public opinion, or enlist followers. The plain fact is that Female Suffrage is not desired by the women of the country. Public sentiment may change in time, but the day when such a sweeping innovation will be received with favor is very remote.

WARRIORS.—The Gazette says: Workmen are removing portions of Saint Mary's Church, and others are laying the foundations for the new structure. The addition will be larger than the present building and is intended to increase the attractiveness and pleasantness of the accommodations for worship. Messrs. Hall and Drown, have contracted to perform the work and job. The enlargement has been wanted for a long time, and imperative necessity now demands it.

William P. Freeman, Esq., Cashier of First National Bank, received through the Post Office, what purported to be a ten dollar bill, asking what should be done with it, as it was pronounced by some banks uncurrent. One glance of the Cashier, solved the difficulty. The ten, was an altered bill, a two dollar note had been manipulated, skillfully enough to deceive the majority of people, but it was rather a brazen proceeding to send such a bill to its parent bank for collection.

MARTIN'S VINEYARD.—The New Bedford Standard says: At a meeting of the Martin's Vineyard Land and Wharf Company, held yesterday, it was voted to extend the wharf at Oak Bluffs 10 feet further out, and to build another large building south of the one near the wharf, with a portico all round it.

The numbers remaining at Wesleyan Grove since the close of the camp-meeting are greater than ever before, and at the request of fifty families Messrs. Brock & Gifford, grocers, have consented to remain there till September.

THE CHURCH MARKET.—Trade was brisk at the Little Falls market on Monday, August 19th, with a larger delivery than for the week previous. Prices on the whole were perhaps a shade lower than for the week previous, but the best grades of family groceries sold no higher than quotations last week. Good lots sold in the morning at from 10 to 12c, the latter being considered an extreme rate for fancy lots. The average price for family groceries was at 11 1/2c.

THE REMOVAL OF SHERIDAN.—The President has, it is reported, issued the order for the removal of General Sheridan. In doing so he has assumed a grave responsibility, and has, after all, pleased or satisfied nobody, he has his own way—that is about all that can be said of the act—from his standpoint. It is an obstinate man who has done his will.

The country will not forget that in removing Sheridan Mr. Johnson has chosen to set contrary to the advice and judgment of the General of the army. A wise man in his place would, in such a transaction, have taken the advice of the General whose experience should tell him who is the fittest officer for a place.

The unseemly squabble as to whether the fortune of Chief Justice Chase is $700,000 or $70,000, or whether on the other hand, he is poor and in straits, has brought out a statement from Mr. Chase himself, which must be considered as settling the whole dispute. After remarking that he does "not want to be represented as particularly poor or particularly disinterested," the Ex-Secretary of the Treasury says: "I think I am worth now about one hundred thousand dollars. I should at any rate be quite willing to take that sum in 5,000, and make a clear conveyance of all I have in the world to anybody who will pay my debts. I would willingly be worth a good deal more, if I knew of an honest way to be worth more. We trust that now the papers and politicians which have been agitating this exciting subject of public interest will be satisfied."

THE OPERA.—Their subscribers who have not yet their tickets for the ITALIAN OPERA next Tuesday and Wednesday, will please call at Dr. Wicks' store, for them. The ticket office is open from 10 a. m. till 6 p. m.

A correspondent of the Maine Farmer says: "Having a wife who may be glad to know, when she has a piece of fresh meat she wishes to keep a few days, that it can be successfully done by placing it in a dish and covering it with butter-milk. I have practiced the plan for years."

The famous yacht "Herald," victor in the recent regatta on the lake of Wight, was sold by Mr. James Gordon Bennett, Jr. for the sum of fifty thousand dollars. It is understood that it is now owners have not purchased it for private use, but hope to make a large speculative profit from the celebrity of her maritime name and speed.

THE CHURCH.—As an appeal is about to be made to our citizens for help for the suffering women and children of Crete, we give the following articles from a letter by Dr. Howe, who is familiar with the facts of the case. We might quote much more largely to the same effect but as it is not a new statement of the case, this is probably sufficient. He says:—At the outbreak of the revolt, all who could get away from Crete did so, and probably about 20,000 fled. About 13,000 are in Greece proper. Of these, about 5000 pick up a scanty livelihood by their own efforts; while 4500 are registered and receive from the several committees a daily pittance of forty lepta for adults and twenty lepta for children, which will barely buy bread sufficient to support life.

But yesterday an industrious and self-supporting peasantry, these latter are today homeless and rigid dependants. They live huddled together in barracks, in public buildings, in stables, in poor hovels. They sit and sleep upon the floor, for lack of furniture; and they wait in idleness for some news which will enable them to go back to their native island. Such is the condition of the Cretans who have fled thither.

A vigorous blockade has converted the whole island into a vast prison-house, in which tortures of various kinds are systematically applied upon an immense scale, and upon the whole population of insurgent districts. The thumb-screws are steadily tightened, so that the agonizing cries of their women and children may lead the men to submit. Disciplined armies, preceded by fanatical and ferocious irregulars, devastate the open country, burn the houses, destroy the crops, cut down the trees, tear up the vines and leave no living and no green thing behind them. The wretched fugitives who escape with their lives from the burning villages, now stand upon the shores and the mountain sides, and stretch out their hands to the Christian world for means of escape.

Behind them is a foe more dreadful than death; around them barren rocks; before them the sea, so closely blockaded that one cannot even fish from the shore. They have no houses, and the evenings are not large enough to shelter them all. They have not clothing enough, not even rags enough to cover their nakedness, so that a modest man avoids looking at young women and maidens. They have not food enough for their little ones, who cling around their mothers' limbs, and almost gnaw them in the agony of hunger. Famine has been regarded as one of those awful instruments by which the Almighty works His mysterious will.

THOSE WHALES.—We learn from Mr. Geo. B. Lawton that the second whale has been captured at Beacom by the crew that has been chasing it since Saturday last. They had previously thrown a harpoon into him which was attached to a post that kept aloft, thus marking the course of the monster as he passed through the water. After getting lost to the whale it took about two hours to haul on and kill him. The boat then took the whale in tow and brought him to the bridge near the Lawton House where he may be seen during the week free of cost.

It is not often that whales come up in front of summer boarding houses for the entertainment of guests, and those who have enjoyed the exciting sport of the chase and capture must consider themselves highly favored. The incident has created so little excitement among the people who have thus been permitted an experience in whale fishing either as participants or spectators. The oil will doubtless pay well for the financial outlay though we have no idea of the amount which the animals are expected to produce. The boats crew that made the capture consisted of William Winton Francis, B. Winton, Charles D. Manchester, Horace Manchester and Charles Manchester.

THE NEW ROAD.—We have been favored by Alfred Smith Esq., with the following table of distances on the new road. From the Ocean House (lower corner of Bovey street) to the gate at the end of the old Bellevue Avenue, is within ten feet of two miles: From that point, to Castle Hill beach, over the new shore road or (Bellevue Avenue extended) three and seven eighths miles making five miles and seven eighths from the Ocean House to Castle Hill beach. From Castle Hill beach to the Ocean House, over the old road to Bateman's, Harrison Avenue, the old Fort road and Narragansett Avenue, is about three miles and two thirds, making the whole round drive from the Ocean House to back rather over nine and a half miles.

ABANDONED FOR LARCENY.—The house of Samuel Oman, on Comstock Island, was robbed, yesterday of forty-eight dollars, four dollars of which were in silver coin. Two boys named Minkler and Spooner were arrested in this city, Wednesday night, charged with the theft and locked up in jail.

It is charged that these boys seeing Oman in town, yesterday, conceived the idea of robbing his house, one of them having previously lived with him on his farm on Conanicut. They accordingly hired a boat and went over effecting an entrance to the house through a window. They will be arraigned before the Court of Justices to-morrow morning, to answer.

The following is a list of the prices paid by Mr. Robert Bonner for his celebrated horses: Dexter, $50,000; Peabodias, $35,000; Auburn Horse, $15,000; Peerless, $5,000; Ladyship Maid, $5,000; Lantern, $5,000; Lady Palmer, $5,000; Total, $115,000.

News Miscellaneous.

On the 10th inst., a Stoughton lady received 161 letters by a single mail. Beecher and Bonner have consented that "Norwood" shall be dramatized. It is hardly to be expected that its first presentation will be in Plymouth Church.

Preaches sold at fifty cents per bushel in Baltimore. The crop was never known to be so large as it is at this season, notwithstanding all the growers have said to the contrary. The Norwich Advertiser (Conn.) announces several changes by removal in Connecticut post offices, and says of the new officials: "Excellent appointments every one of them."

The St. Louis Board of Health have forbidden the selling or giving away of any fresh oysters, either in can or shell, until the 15th of September.

An aged gentleman named Small was knocked down in Brooklyn, the other day, by a small dog running between his feet, and both legs broken below the knees. In attempting to walk home afterwards he forced the broken bones through the flesh, and amputation alone can now save his life.

Van Amburgh's show was so crowded with spectators at Fairfield, Iowa, a few days since, that two children were smothered to death in their mother's arms. Subsequently two farmers were racing on their way home from the exhibition, when one was thrown from his wagon and killed.

It is reported at Washington that General Pease and Howard are soon to be removed, and that Gen. Gordon Granger is to be placed at the Freedmen's Bureau. The latter, it is said, has been leading around Washington ever since the Cleveland convention, during the President's work. General Grant has tried several times to have him sent to his regiment, but in each case the President has countermanded the order.

At a meeting of members of the bar at Washington yesterday, resolutions sustaining Judge Fisher's course toward Mr. Bradley, and rebuking that belligerent counsel for his violation of the rules of decorum, refinement, and professional courtesy, were adopted.

A steamboat captain at Charleston has been fined $200 for having refused to grant a first-class ticket and passage to a colored woman, because of her color. Gen. Sickles argues the offender's guilt both as a lawyer and a commander, and approves the finding of the Post Court.

Though it is difficult to obtain any trustworthy information from Spain, it is known that Gen. Prim is still at the head of the insurrection, which has not been quelled. It is reported that Gen. Prim is supplied with funds by prominent bankers in Paris.

The Mission of the United States at the Holy See having been discontinued, the American Legation in this city has been closed.

Lord Monck does not return to England, but will remain one year longer in Canada at the head of the new Government.

The Providence Journal announces the return home of a professional party of Brown University, which left this city upon the 6th of July. Their score of travel amounts to 282 miles, of which 600 have been on foot, the remainder by water. Upon days of travel they averaged more than 20 miles per day; their longest march being 32 miles on Tuesday last. At different points on the route great curiosity was excited as to the object of their march, and they were taken at various times for gypsies; retarding soldiers; a faculty moving; Fenians; pedlars; men engaged in setting up a new telegraph line; factory operatives; workers on the railroad; (at Stratford,) race horse riders; sailors; base ball players; firemen more than once a band of millionaires, and last as they really were, a party of students upon a pleasure excursion.

FALL PROSPECTS.—By ploughing, the soil is made productive, or in other words, capable of producing the crops we intend to grow. A soil that is close, hard, and so compact, that the fibrous roots of plants cannot penetrate it, cannot be expected to produce a crop of wheat or any other cereal and consequently the more porous and pulverulent we can make it, the greater the return it will give. In order that the soil may be made productive, we must cultivate well. The ploughing must be well done, the manure applied to a field should be thoroughly incorporated with the soil in order to be within reach of the roots of the plants. Special attention should be given to this subject at this time, and the land got into the very best condition, that we may raise larger crops in the fall, and get into fine tilt for planting or sowing, the less we shall have to do in the spring. Many farmers reap the reward of their forethought in this particular the past spring when the weather was so unfavorable that only a few days now and then were to be depended on, and they were enabled to get in their crops while their less fortunate neighbors were losing their ploughing.

ATTEMPTED WARD.

Did you ever hear of the late Artemas Ward's experiment in travelling without method? He left New York by a night boat. Directly a man spoke to him, saying, "Going West, sir?"

Said Artemas, "I suppose so." Then said the man, "As I'm from the West, we'll go drink." "Do you drink brandy?" said the man. "I suppose so," said Artemas.

"Where in the devil do you go?" said the man. "Well, I'm going any where for a month. Just as other people lead me! I've travelled with purpose till I'm sick. A purpose is worse than luggage. I'm going out; that's all I know."

The man said he was in with Brown till death. He said he never did anything a purpose. "So," he said, "Suppose we go to my study-room and try a hand at poker." They played poker till daylight, when Brown was very light. He had lost four or five hundred dollars. A second man joined them at Albany. "So you too be travelling by chance, as you may say? Well! I'm with you to the death." They got off the boat and a hack driver said: Where do you want to go, gentlemen? "Anywhere, go on!" He drove to a bar-room with much alacrity. There they made so great a noise that the proprietor cried, "Where be you going, men?" "Don't care!" "Then go out!" They met a policeman on the sidewalk. Where are you bound? "Anywhere!" Then the policeman said: "You'll have to wait till the station-house will suit." Charles Brown was pulled up before the Judge next day; he gravely gave the name of Gerrit Smith, and Gerrit was fined for drunkenness. "Where now?" cried the three purposeless ones. "To Ulica," There a signpost, and they went to Ulica. There a signpost, and they went to Ulica. There a signpost, and they went to Ulica.

When he was going to Ulica, he was very light. He had lost four or five hundred dollars. A second man joined them at Albany. "So you too be travelling by chance, as you may say? Well! I'm with you to the death." They got off the boat and a hack driver said: Where do you want to go, gentlemen? "Anywhere, go on!" He drove to a bar-room with much alacrity. There they made so great a noise that the proprietor cried, "Where be you going, men?" "Don't care!" "Then go out!" They met a policeman on the sidewalk. Where are you bound? "Anywhere!" Then the policeman said: "You'll have to wait till the station-house will suit." Charles Brown was pulled up before the Judge next day; he gravely gave the name of Gerrit Smith, and Gerrit was fined for drunkenness. "Where now?" cried the three purposeless ones. "To Ulica," There a signpost, and they went to Ulica. There a signpost, and they went to Ulica. There a signpost, and they went to Ulica.
